Are you ready?

This is not your ordinary conference. In fact, forget everything you know about meetings, lunches, coffee breaks and long, boring dinners.

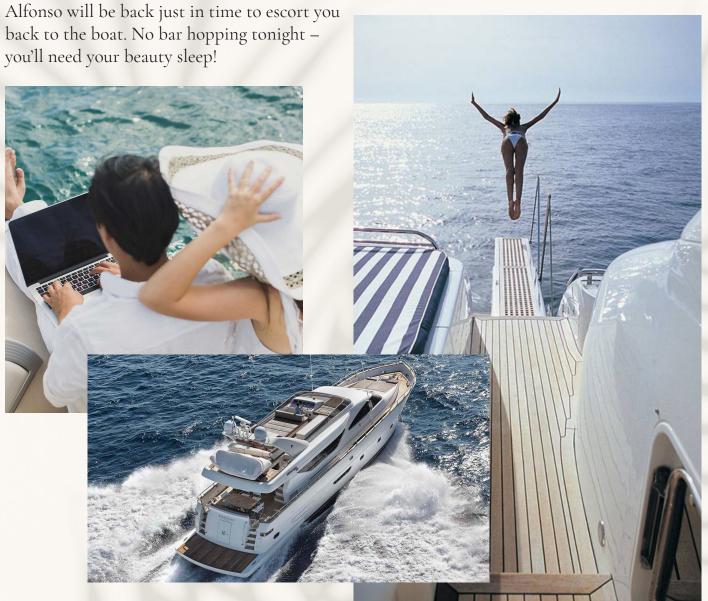

These are three days in Palma, curated by ESSoESS, where you and your colleagues will experience something completely different.

Enjoy the ride!

Day One

You arrive rather late to Palma. Alfonso, our captain, will be waiting at the airport gates to pick you up with the ESSoESS mobile and take you to the boat.

Get in the Palma mood and start with a boat drink (the first of many), enjoying the sunset at the flybridge. When the clock strikes dinner time, we have reserved a table for you at El Camino. This is the perfect spot to enjoy tapas and relax together.

Day two

The alarm clock will sound rather early. We apologize, but it's just because we don't want you to miss out on the incredible sunrise at the island. We recommend a stroll or a run along the beach. We'll aim for Portixol and Molinar where we'll meet the first sun rays. Stop for coffee in Ciudad Jardin before heading back home. 10k never felt so easy.

Back at the boat, breakfast will be served and Alfonso, together with his crew, will confirm the agenda for the day.

Energized and well fed, we believe you are more than ready to start the meeting (after all, that's what you told everybody back home you were doing, right?).

The scenery will inspire you to make bold decisions, take creative actions, and present great ideas. Soon enough, it's time for a coffee break on the flybridge.

For lunch today, we've booked a table for you at one of our favorites: Mar de Nudos, because we feel it would be a shame if you missed the Linguine al Pesto Rosso, when staying at the island.

Happy and satisfied – you'll go back to the boat for an intense afternoon session with a well-deserved coffee break in the afternoon.

After the successful meeting, captain Alfonso is ready to take you to court. Tennis or padel court that is. Enjoy Palma Tennis or Pins Padel. In the evening, enjoy a quick debriefing with the crew, while enjoying that obligatory boat drink before dinner.

Tonight, we've booked you a table at Giromatto in Catalina. Let us know if you want us to preorder the Veal Milanese which they are so famous for. It's available Thursdays through Sundays and trust us, they're the best freakin' Milaneses east of Milan!

If you like, we'll mix you a great night cap after dinner, back at the boat, or just head straight to bed – we wouldn't hold it against you after a day of intense fun!

Day three

You know the drill – fill up on sun and energy by going for a beautiful morning run or walk along the harbor. You can also climb up the small hill and enjoy the breathtaking view from Castell de Bellver. Be sure to be back in time for breakfast and a quick run-through with Alfonso and crew.

After breakfast we'll lift anchor and head out for a working day at sea.

Around mid-morning, we'll have a quick coffee break. Today lunch will be served at Hotel Bendinat/Cap Rocat.

The day continues with more meetings, but it won't be long before it's time to put on your best bathing suit and bring out your inner Esther Williams out on the sea. Swim all the way to the beach bar Roxy in Portales where you can enjoy an instagram friendly Aperol Spritz to make your friends back home real' jealous.

A quick boat drink while getting ready and then it's dinner time at famous Toque de Queda – authentic tapas and great vibes. It's the perfect distance for a nice walk back to the boat where – if you're in the mood – you'll enjoy one last night cap at this dreamy location that has now become more of a home away from home.

Day four

Well, it's time to say goodbye and check out from this paradise, but first enjoy one last breakfast.

If you have the time, feel free to take one last stroll around the town before hopping in the ESSoESS mobile to go the airport and get back to reality.

Adios and hasta luego! We believe it won't be long until we meet again!
